Space Re-Launch

To commemorate its 125th anniversary, Breitling issues a 100-piece limited-edition series based on the model that in 1962 became the first chronograph wristwatch to experience space travel. The Cosmonaute, here as an automatic, features a 24-hour dial in order to prevent possible confusion of midday and midnight in space. The 41.5-mm steel case houses the Breitling Caliber 22 self-winding movement. A rigid perforated steel Air Racer bracelet is fitted exclusively to the piece. Price: $6,575.

Sporty Fashion

Offered exclusively in a completely black version, the DV One COSC-rated chronograph from Versace brings a new light to sports watches. Available in a limited edition collection, this piece features a sleek black case enhanced by a top ring, which displays a tachymeter scale dial. The black crown, pushers, and hands lie in contrast with the titanium-color stainless steel markers and lugs. Price: $6,990.

Bertolucci Volta

Reminiscent of the Mediterranean waters surrounding Italy, the new Volta collection from Bertolucci reveals a sleek, elegant design complete with a wave pattern of 92 diamonds. The black opaline dial sits within the 42-mm stainless steel case, featuring two hours and minutes counters, allowing for two time zone settings. The Swiss quartz timepiece is made with a black leather strap and interchangeable spring bar. Price: $4,600.
